| Viticulture and Vinification |

Our Muscat grapes' natural intensity of characteristic flavour is the backbone of this wine. Muscat wines are some of the few in which tasting the grape is much like tasting the wine. The intense flavour (known technically as terpenes) can be tasted quite clearly in the grapes. The aim of making these wines is then to maximize the passage of these flavours from vineyard to bottle. This is achieved by cool night harvesting, gentle pressing, protecting the juice and later the wine from excessive contact with the air and maintaining cool temperatures throughout.

| Tasting notes |

Straw yellow with greenish tints, very good limpidity. Grassy aromas of dried hay, flowery aromas (elder), followed by tints of white fruits (peach, apricot) and honey. Very good acidity, slightly citric, round, balanced, mineral, with medium and pleasant aftertaste.
